

Toronto, Ontario—31 August 2009. Compugen Inc. is pleased to announce that it has attained the number two position in Computer Dealer News' (CDN's) ranking of IT solution providers operating in Canada during the year 2008. Compugen has been for some time the largest privately owned IT solution and service provider in Canada. The 2008 ranking is based on gross Canadian revenue (generated in Canada for products shipped to a Canadian address) reported for the calendar year and expressed in Canadian dollars. Compugen's ranking has steadily grown from sixth position in 2004, to 4th position in 2005 and third position in 2007.

"We are pleased to have our status in the Canadian marketplace recognized by Computer Dealer News," said Harry Zarek, Compugen's President and CEO. "Compugen continues to grow as we realize our strategy of becoming the IT "go-to" partner for medium to large businesses and governmental agencies across the country. Our customers are more and more asking for us to provide enterprise-level solutions along with the expertise to procure and deploy the hardware and license the software. Our technical consulting team has grown in scope and expertise—breadth, depth and geographic coverage—to answer this need. Our sales, service, marketing, administration, logistics, warehouse, configuration and IS teams are stepping up to the challenge of being the only Canadian player with the capability to deliver all this in-house."
